

NOSEY?

'course you are...

...so are we!

Hard to believe but it's been nearly ten years since the first Systems Engineers graduated – summer 1997 in fact. And we want to know what you've all been up to. Not just the '97 lot but all 437 of you that have shared the same experience since that summer.

So we are planning a celebration get together on and we want you to be there. With as many of your old mates as possible.

Saturday 7th July 2007

Why?

Well, as we just admitted, we're nosy, too. We want to hear all your news, catch up on the gossip and indulge in a bit – no, actually, quite a lot – of nostalgia.

And, to be honest, we have another agenda:

You may not have realised it when you were 18, but you were a pioneer – one of a very special group of people! Now that you're out there, you almost certainly realise that Systems Engineers are still in short supply worldwide. So we thought it would be a good idea to get you networking – a sort of LU Systems Engineers Club. Share ideas and expertise, help each other solve problems, that sort of thing, all on a voluntary basis.

If you just want to come along for the news and nostalgia, that's fine too.

Plans for the day are forming so if you have a great idea or a special request just drop us an email and we'll see if we can do it. (No promises!)

Where are you? What are you doing? Come back and tell us all about it!

It'll start on Saturday morning at the SEIC from 10.00am. (Where? See www.seic-loughborough.com). We want to get you all together in the morning and then leave you the afternoon free to roam campus, town, find all your old haunts and do your own nosily nostalgic thing before coming back together for the evening.

For the first part of the day we'd like you all to send us a simple update in advance: photos of you then and now, what you're up to personally and professionally. If you can't make it on the 7th, you can still send in your update and be there in spirit. In fact we'd be upset if you didn't.

For a touch of true nostalgia we have reserved bedrooms in Faraday! (Singles, of course, though en-suite these days.) We quite understand if you'd prefer to arrange your own accommodation in local hotels or with friends. We'll send out a local hotel list when you book.

The evening banquet will be served in Elvyn Richards but it won't be hall food, we promise. Menu details and choices will follow. And if you let us know the songs that remind you of your student days, we'll play them for you. (Yes, even that one!)

Places are limited to 200 for the banquet, so get in early to reserve your place!

BOOKING FORM otherwise known as capturing your requirements!
